How To Stop Cravings We all experience cravings for a coffee, orange juice, or chocolate, at least every now and then. Overcoming a craving is as simple as knowing how to stop a craving, or as difficult as we like. It can just be really hard not to eat a cheeseburger because you've got a craving or feeling of emptiness and you think it's going to help you. Knowing how to stop a craving can help you to make healthier decisions. How To Stop Cravings There are a few effective ways to stop a craving, or at least moderate its intensity and frequency. • Have Simple Antioxidant-Rich Foods • Supplement with an Anti-Craving Nutrient • Have Mindful Eating

1. Have Simple Antioxidant-Rich Foods One way to stop a craving is to make a conscious decision to switch to an antioxidant-rich food when you're craving. Everyone seems to have a good excuse for eating a bagel, cheese sandwich, or ice cream sundae but there's a simple, healthy way to satisfy your sweet cravings. Antioxidant-rich foods are packed full of natural nutrients that help to protect cells from the damage of oxidation and they also contain complex carbohydrates that help to stabilize blood sugar, which can cause cravings and feelings of hunger. Selecting a form of fruit, vegetable, whole grains or nuts that contain a minimum of 300 mg of vitamin C, 75 mg of vitamin E, or 25 mg of carotenoids for every 100 calories eaten.
2. Supplement with an Anti-Craving Nutrient Another effective way to stop cravings is to supplement with a nutrient like glutamine, which is a building block for muscle tissue. Glutamine can help to strengthen the immune system and also help build and maintain lean muscle tissue. Glutamine may also help to reduce cravings by improving our appetite. Glutamine is found naturally in the body and in smaller doses it appears to be beneficial. If you're a vegan, dietician or nutritionist, then you know how hard it can
