Issue accessing/setting default value of table column in SQLite database I'm using a SQLite database and am attempting to set the default value of a field in the database (longType in the case below) to -1 or False to signify a value has not been set yet. I can set and retrieve this field's value just fine, but when I attempt to set it to -1 or False I get a `SQLITE_BAD_DATABASE` exception. Is there any reason I'm receiving this error? Is there another way to set a column's default value so that I can be assured of a value being set? I would really like to avoid `if(oldValue == -1)` checks, but if I don't want to use `if` statements I'm stuck.

def set_longType(self, value):
    row = self.cursor.execute("SELECT longType FROM frequencyTypes WHERE name =?", (value, )) self.cursor.rowcount longType = row[0] if(longType == -1): longType = False self.cursor.execute("UPDATE frequencyTypes SET longType =? WHERE name =?", (longType, value, )) return self.cursor.rowcount

A: Perhaps

you meant instead: if(row[0] == -1): longType = False
