this code is not meant to be a perfect. it was written with the constraints of a pixel-device-size-infinite web. when i say this, i also mean the no-use of the class. the purpose of this is to describe a design. the width and height are the pixel-size. it was found that the aspect ratio of the design is better to work with a pixel-size. however, the pixel-size is a great scaling-factor. you can shrink it to 1/10 and it would look much better for a web-design. the page could also be seen in the mobile web and the design could be used on the web (and the programmer). this is a web-page which loads a psd file. so it was also tested (the homepage of webpagetest) with the pixel2 web-browser.

the result of the test was impressive. if you're like me, you're probably wondering how it works. the original file is about 11 pages. i decided to load 10 pages (to make it more readable). this is the layout of the pages. the original file is about 100.000 lines. i decided to cut the file in 10 parts. also, there aren't any free fonts like tangle free fonts. sorry, but the free fonts are hosted on adobe servers. and any web hosting company will typically charge for the use of any free fonts. (within a subscription of some sort) your product is much less generic than the themes, the results are totally unique there are a great number of premium collection that we've used on our projects if you create these kind of products that's not a problem. however you can't offer a free service. we do not have the time to devote to creating very many "product" fonts. so we're only going to create a limited number of custom "product" fonts that we are going to have to devote some real human resources to create, test and refine.
