Hi There, Do you want to buy MidiQuest XL 10.0.5? I sell MidiQuest XL 10.0.5 and the upgrade is USD 119 at the moment. If you want it, you can email me the number that you bought it from (0713-1534-1204) and the number you buy it from (0713-1534-1827). I will follow up to you asap. You can't beat a 'new and improved' version of MIDIQuest for the Mac. The Windows one has been updated for the Mac, it now supports tracks, MIDI files, and audio input. There's a new interface, as well as standard controller, and the effectiveness of the MidiQuest compressor has been increased substantially. The Windows build is out of the beta stage now, and to get it you just need to download and run the installer from the manufacturer's site. In fact, so impressed was one music site by the new Mac build of MIDIQuest XL, that it replaced the Windows version in its review. Not that MIDIQuest XL is difficult to get and use. Thanks to its friendly look and feel, you can easily see everything going on on your computer screen at a glance. You can choose from an extensive list of synth sounds - each with a detailed MIDI interface diagram, and detailed instruction on the best way to use it. Then, if you want more than one synth sound and they are from different manufacturers, you can quickly snap any one of them to any track and instantly link them together. The same is true of using any kind of MIDI effect - now you can edit a sound and apply effects separately, then link them together, with the same track. It really is like having loads of function keyboards. 5ec8ef588b
